SCI Annual Hunters' Convention Booking Agent/Guide Service Company Rules & Regulations

Individuals and entities at the Convention who are Booking Agents, Guide Service Companies and other companies that provide or arrange for services or benefits to be supplied by third parties (collectively, "Booking Agents") are required to comply with all policies, rules and regulations promulgated by SCI governing the Convention, including, without limitation the Additional Booth Occupant Policy for Booth Sharing or Joint Displays. The following rules are specific to Booking Agents.

Each Booking Agent is responsible to have available, if requested, proof that all professional hunters, guides and/or other safari/hunting companies or other third parties being represented by it ("clients") are licensed or otherwise authorized to hunt or provide other services in the countries, provinces, states, etc., where hunts or services are being sold or supplied in accordance with governing laws in those particular jurisdictions.

If the required exhibitor donation of a Booking Agent is being fulfilled by a client, by signing the applicable Hunt/Fishing or Non-Hunt Donation Form, the Booking Agent and the client acknowledge and agree that (1) Booking Agent and the client will be held, jointly and severally, responsible to ensure all aspects of the donation comply with and are completed in accordance with SCI's policies and procedures; and (2) all pertinent information regarding the client must be indicated on the applicable Hunt/Fishing or Non-Hunt Donation form, including, without limitation, the name and all contact information.

Booking Agents are required to disclose all clients attending the Convention by submitting the Request for Additional Booth Occupant and SCI Multiple Client/Company Disclosure forms. Booking Agents are limited to five (5) clients attending the Convention. Each client attending the Convention must be a member of SCI.

Booking Agents and their clients having a presence on the show floor must comply with SCI Membership Policies and the Convention policies. The SCI Membership Policies and Convention policies apply to any hunt or other goods or services sold on the show floor by any party.
